PRICES ARE ADVANCING; INDUSTRIES SUFFERING

War Bluff Has Generally Bad Effect in the United States

SOME MILLS MAY CLOSE

Supply of German Soda Ash Not Now Available—People Must Pay the Freight

While prices of food products and products coming under almost every classification are soaring to the skies causing suffering and want at home as well as abroad it is being whispered that industries will come under the ban and suffer severely too from the war. Many kinds of industries use in their manufacturing material that comes only from points abroad. With the recent wholesale declarations of war they are not available. Among the material for which there is at present a demand and for which later there will be a greater demand is that of soda ash, used in the manufacture of other kinds of products, including paper.

The unexpectedness of the European conflagration left manufacturers in the United States unprepared. Some glass men found their factories stocked with a supply of soda ash sufficient to last but a few weeks. Others had a little more on hand, but scarcely any possess an adequate supply to enable them to continue operations indefinitely. Among those which will be affected is the Charleroi plant of the Macbeth-Evans Glass company. However, it is stated there is enough of a supply on hands there to last at least two months. Practically all the soda ash used here comes from Germany and the war has had the effect of tying up shipments.

Over the country this morning word went forth to publishers from paper manufacturers that all present prices are cancelled on various kinds of paper.

One of the unanticipated happenings has been decided increases in the prices of imported drugs. This is something upon which the people will pay the freight—as a matter of fact, any increase in anything means increased living expense for the people.

"All foreign drugs and many chemicals have gone up two and three times their former prices," said Cary E. Piper, the local druggist this morning. Among the drugs and chemicals affected are: Iodoform, aspirin, camphor, cream of tartar, salts Rochelle, canary and hemp seeds, chamomile flower, iodide of potassium, liquid alcohol, glycerine, and all bromides and iodides. Olive oil will cost much more than at present. Disinfectants are sky high in price.

The war has been taken as an excuse for aeroplaning the price of flour and according to predictions from one large firm made in a meeting in Pittsburgh Saturday, it will jump to $10 a barrel. Rapid increases have already been made. Most of the imported food products advanced from 10 to 40 per cent in price during last week.

Sugar may soon be a luxury, and the same war bluff will make it so. Housewives were amazed to learn Monday that granulated sugar has jumped from five to seven cents a pound. It is still going up.

The school board will hold a special session tonight to select another teacher for the head of the manual training department. Cecil B. Gray, of Muskegon, Mich., who was elected by the board some time ago has sent his resignation.

HIGH OFFICERS ATTEND

Glass City lodge No. 4392 colored Grand United Order of Odd Fellows held their second annual picnic at Eldora park Monday. During the afternoon there was a good crowd, but in the evening the crowd was materially increased. They were considerably disappointed in that Hon. H. W. Temple who was to have been the principal speaker of the day, was unable to be present.

District Grand Master Lewis E. Morton of Scranton; P. S. Blackwell, district deputy grand master of Steelton, and R. D. Flint, district grand director of Pennsylvania were present and delivered addresses.

Brown, James T. Young, Edward Young, Charles Simpson, Fenton Simpson, Samuel Fredwood, Joseph Ody, George Williams, Joseph McSmith, D. F. Ferguson, E. T. Smith, Alex. Bradshaw, J. W. Smith, H. W. NO CALL FOR MEN AT AUSTRIAN CONSULATE

Many Register For War Duty But so Far Are Not Needed—Monongahela Valleyians Anxious to Enlist

Hundreds of men continued to call at the Austro-Hungary consulate Monday at Pittsburgh to register as available subjects for war if it shall be decided by the authorities of that country to call them home. It is stated there are enough men available at home for present war purposes, but if it shall become necessary to call those now in this country the consulate records will show where they are and where they can be communicated with promptly. Many from the Monongahela valley are anxious to enlist.

An attaché of the consulate said that no effort had been made to send men home and any who had gone to seaboard points for embarkation had done so at their own instance and had paid their own way, as no money was available at the consulate for the purpose and it would be in contravention of the President's proclamation of neutrality to attempt to assist them by furnishing them transportation.

Charleroi Citizens to Present Petition Within a Day

TO CARE FOR FRAUDS

Precedent Established at Last Term Through Influence of Local Man

Believing that the grand jury of the August term of court should follow the precedent of the May grand jury and remain in session at the call of the court until November to serve as a discourager to election frauds, Charleroi people have formulated a petition that will within the course of a day be presented to the grand jury and the court asking such action. The sense of the petition is that the grand jury remain in session, with the court and through the aid of the court. The wording is as follows:

"We, citizens of Charleroi being impressed with the most worthy precedent established by the May term of the grand jury and the Honorable court in extending the term so as to be of immediate service to the people to prevent or suppress election corruption respectfully petition the Honorable court and the Honorable members of this August term of the grand jury to so extend the term thereof that its legal existence may not be impaired or extinguished until the first day of November, this year, that it shall not be assembled during such time after the completion of its present duties except by order of the Honorable court, but may be dismissed on or after the said date by His Honor without further appearance of the grand jury in court."

Through the influence of Charles O. Frye of Charleroi a member of the May grand jury the grand jury with the consent and through the encouragement of the court was kept in session until after election day. Though the grand jury was not called, its immediate availability it is believed served to discourage frauds that might otherwise have been committed. The action of this grand jury was much commented upon.

The petition now has been largely signed and it is probable will be presented to Rev. J. P. Jordan of McDonald, foreman not later than tomorrow.

In order to intelligently understand the causes of the present European war, the reasons why certain nations are allied against others, offensively and defensively, and why the apparent failure of two nations to settle their differences should involve practically all the other nations of Europe, on one side or the other, it is absolutely necessary to be familiar with the history of these various nations, of their people and of their politics says the Washington Observer.

In other words we must study the background—the historic background. Take Austria, for example, or rather the Austrian-Hungary, empire—two nations in one, of different races, customs and language, partly German, partly Slavonic, partly Magyar with many Croatsians, Rumanians, and Czechs. This empire is always on the brink of an internal revolution but is held together by reason of the fact that the people stand a better chance of living together under one central government than by living under separate governments because the fear of Russia on the north and the Balkan states on the south really under the influence of the powerful Russia. The army alone cements the union.

And it may be that the war against Serbia was declared solely for the purpose of maintaining the integrity of their own government.

We are sure at least that this fact has had a strong influence on encouraging the nation to go to war. And the army influence of Austria is German, although perhaps the majority of the men in the army do not understand the German language.

But if it is necessary for Austria under German influence to preserve her own empire by going to war with Serbia, it is not difficult to understand why Germany is forced into this war from the same viewpoint.

Belgium-itself is a country of two distinct races, the northern part of German origin and the southern part of Gallic origin with little distinct nationality.

So it is not to be wondered at that Belgium has been known and is known in history as the battlefield of Europe. The battle of Waterloo, which decided the fate of Europe was on Belgian soil.

The other nations involved have historic reasons as well as present reasons. Based on national defense and industrial and commercial interests which must be considered in the present situation and which can only be understood by a knowledge of the past and present history of these nations.

The Republican candidates for Congress in the several districts of Pennsylvania has sent an assuring and encouraging message to all the Republicans of the state. The congressional candidates held a conference in Washington last week. The political situation and the political conditions in all the districts were carefully reviewed and considered, and the result of the conference renewed Republican confidence and encouraged

A week later the father got a bill for $20, which represented the cost of the barrel of ruined lemonade in which the youngster had been plunged. The father was willing to pay several times $20 for the preservation of his son, but to place that valuation on a barrel of street lemonade struck him as a bit of unwelcome but delectable satire.

The political situation in the state was disassembled from every angle. Plans were laid for a smashing campaign between now and November, and at the close of the conference it was predicted by Chairman Pettin that of the thirty-six seats to be filled in November, the Republicans would capture at least twenty-eight and possibly thirty. Dissatisfaction with the Democratic administration, it was said, meant the election of Republicans in all districts now represented by Democrats. The feud in the Democratic ranks, due to the handling of patronage by Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic senatorial candidate, it was reported, had alienated thousands of Democrats who would

The tariff situation now existing in European countries furnishes a convincing lesson for the Americans who are doubtful regarding the efficacy of the protective tariff. American industries must become firmly established so that the United States can not be affected by any trouble that may exist in other parts of the world. Maintaining a protective tariff is the only way to place our industries upon a firm foundation.

Senator Penrose expressed such a viewpoint in an interview with a Philadelphia newspaper man. This is his exact language:

"The conditions in Europe afford a striking illustration of the importance of the protective tariff policy for the United States. The protective system stands on a number of foundations. In recent years it has been a policy for the protection of the American laborer; and the maintenance of a high wage standard as against the low wage of Europe.

"This principle of protection was forcibly brought home to the American people during the Napoleonic wars. The great argument for protection at that time was to have industries firmly established in the United States so that no European war could deprive us of manufactured articles. This condition seems to be repeated at the present time. The general war extending throughout Europe would deprive us of many articles, such as chemicals used for agriculture and manufacturing products, and would likewise deprive us of many manufactured articles, such as textiles, metals, etc., if we did not have these industries established at home.

"Many of these industries, it is true, were in process of extinction through the operation of the Democratic free-trade policy. Fortunately, however, these industries were not entirely destroyed, and we have the satisfaction of knowing that we can supply ourselves with everything required by the American people, no matter what happens elsewhere in the civilized world. This impregnable feeling of industrial independence is the direct result of the Republican policy of protection."

Anti-Republican politicians who have studied the situation see no chance of defeating the Republican ticket unless the Democrats and Progressives fuse. A Columbia correspondent to the Philadelphia North American advocates a ticket made up of Pinchot for senator and McCormick for governor. "Otherwise," he writes "I feel, from what I have been able to see of the sentiment of the country, or people, that neither the Progressives nor Democrats will be able to defeat these (the Republican) candidates."

Any traveler between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh cannot fail to be struck by the spectacle of long lines of empty freight cars. Such a sight has not been witnessed since the industrial depression of Cleveland's second term. The industrial conditions are getting worse and worse. Raising freight rates on western railroads cannot fill empty freight cars.

Velled attacks on Dr. Martin C. Brumbaugh, Republican candidate for governor, make that candidate stronger with the masses. There was never a more upright man who ran for public office than the superintendent of the Philadelphia public schools and the people are well aware of the fact.

A Philadelphia newspaper takes exception to the statement that Gifford Pinchot is a squatter because the word "squatter" might convey a longer roofing residence than two years. Inasmuch as Pinchot cast his first vote in Pennsylvania in 1912, this newspaper thinks that he should be termed "carnet-bagger."

Richmond, Pa. -- "When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was in a dreadfully rundown state of health, had internal troubles, and was so extremely nervous and prostrated that if I had given in to my feelings I would have been in bed. As it was I had hardly strength at times to be on my feet and what I did do was by a great effort. I could not sleep at night and of course felt very bad in the morning, and had a steady headache.

"After taking the second bottle I noticed that the headache was not so bad, I rested better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued its use until it made a new woman of me, and now I can hardly realize that I am able to do so much as I do. Whenever I know any woman in need of a good medicine I highly praise Lydia E.
